

The do not call law is the best thing that ever happened. We are no longer bothered by unwanted soliciting on the phone especially at dinner time or even late at night. I used to feel like you private time at home was always be interputed every night and sometimes several times a night.